Coffee has long been more than just a beverage; it is a powerful social catalyst that fosters connection and community. Across cultures, coffeehouses serve as gathering places where ideas are exchanged, relationships are forged, and creativity thrives. Whether it's the ritual of a morning cup shared with family, the intellectual buzz of a café, or the simple pleasure of sitting with friends over a steaming mug, coffee continues to be a universal medium through which human connection is brewed and nurtured.

Conveniently located in the ground zero of Atlanta's creative art scene in Little 5 Points, Superfika at Catalog Vintage gives patrons a unique shopping experience and reprieve from the lovable zany characters you'll meet along the way. Their signature lattes and espressos are inspired by founder Jamie Jenkins Scandinavian heritage and experiences that have paved the way for a one of kind cafe experience built on human connection. Make sure to have cash in hand as this cafe prioritizes tangible transaction and encouraging customers to spend more time away from screens and with each other. Visit them weekends at Catalogue 12-6pm.

RESIDENCE

I believe if you truly love something you shouldn't be afraid to say it. I'm a polymath who's deeply passionate about: Equity, Parity, Identity, Serenity, Environments, Wellness, Connection, Family, Nutrition, Enrichment, Creativity, Commerce, Culture, Experience, & Development. True these are many things, but all considered - immensely human. I personally look to associate and build community with people who prioritize these notions. To help catalyze this process we've created RESIDENCEATL Atlanta's first luxury retail club that we envision as a safe space and intersection for creators and new place to experience intentional immersive design. From us for all...

"Representation truly matters and minorities are consistently the most exploited and underrepresented demographic across many markets, and nowhere is this more aberrant than in the luxury space."

When you don't feel welcome or accepted - it can be very difficult to reach your potential. This makes safe space and community paramount in building confidence, connections, and resources for grasping larger opportunities. RESIDENCEATL is designed with just this purpose in mind. Our reimagined luxury experience makes "pro-sumption" interactive, personal and fun. We're a luxury bodega of win wins where the more you indulge in the best vibes around, the more you benefit the wellbeing of yourself and your community. Ahead of our commercial debut we are launching a pre-sale Keyholder Membership Subscription where you can help shape the future of residence and enjoy personalized experiences. We welcome your feedback to ensure the club meets the standards of busy creators and our future keyholders.
